

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to tissue collection devices such as blood collection devices that comprise biosensors for the detection of target analytes such as nucleic acids and proteins, including antibodies and enzymes.